A Photographic History of the Smith Family

Vol. 2: Valentine & Alberta Smith

Nº 3: School and studio photographs

The photographs in this volume are the studio photographs and school pictures of the children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren as of 2021 that are supplemented with photographs from a few sources. They are organized by generations:

- 5 children
- 11 grandchildren
- 6 great-grandchildren (but only photos of 3)

The grandchildren are in the order of the parents Craig's first and Melissa's last. I have very few portraits for the oldest grandchildren but there are plenty in the other albums.

The three pictures I have of the great-grandchildren are on a single page. This is where you get to add to this history

(I've included instructions at the end of this album on how I made this and how you can add to it while keeping the format the same).

Instructions

This was made in a couple of simple steps that are easy to replicate and add your own photos to this, or any other, album. Unfortunately your supplemented album can not be uploaded to my page but you can forward it to me and I can upload it and/or open your own account on the International Archives website (which had no fees to open or maintain an account in 2021) and upload it there. Just be sure to cross-reference any upload to this original one so, if there are multiple versions in 20 years, at least they will be interconnected!

This was made using Microsoft Word in the regular word.doc format. I then converted the album to a pdf format using the “print as PDF” function in MS Word. You can also use an online converter such as ilovepdf.com but be aware that, after a certain point, sites such as these will want you to sign up and pay. There are hundreds of such sites available and they are easy to find by searching for “word doc to pdf online converter free”.

If the file size is very large (over 100,000 kb) you may want to use an online program to reduce, shrink, or compress the file since much of the size is due to features that are not needed in this particular file and they can be stripped out, reducing the size of the file by 50% or more. Check the compressed file against the original to make sure there are no alterations or loss of detail (some online compression programs will do that).

Once verified, you add your pdf to the original one either on your computer (with a program such as PDFshaper, or an online website, such as ilovepdf.com, through their ‘merge’ function.
